

Client Group Settings

No client group settings exist by default. They are inherited from the company settings and are defined after updating a client group to explicitly not inherit from the company settings.